About the Organization:

Based on in-depth International Practical Research and Multidisciplinary and multiple times awarded Groundbreaking work, we develop: (1) Sustainable and Profitable Productions, (2) Comprehensive Services for Organizations and Individuals, (3) Advanced Products and Courses, (4) State-of-the-Art Resources in Easy digestible formats. All to serve and improve the Performing Arts Field (Opera, Orchestra, and Ballet). Working in a multidisciplinary approach (in alliance with Economy, Business, Arts, Anthropology, Social Sciences, Arts Administration, Political Economy, Macro and Micro Economy, Entrepreneurship, and other sciences), we help Organizations, Artists, and Societies (at local, regional, national, and international levels) to understand and use in their favor the clues for the Sustainability of their Performing Arts and their interconnected Artistic, Financial, Social, and Ecological dimensions.

Every stakeholder is crucial in the Performing Arts Field. From Artists and Arts Administrators with stronger and healthier careers; to Organizations with broader and more sustainable artistic practices, business structures, and services; and communities collaborating at local, regional, national, and/or international levels. We develop solutions for a better and more sustainable Performing Arts Field.

Practicum Description:

50 Certified Hours / 2.5 Weeks Camp (In-Person)

The Operations Practicum at the Bloomington Opera Camp™ by Performing Arts Laboratory is a 50 hours program part of the BOC Fellowships (Full Tuition Remission and Stipend) that offers hands-on experience in operations and event management within the Performing Arts field. BOC Operation Fellows will assist the Operations Department with daily activities, work on Opera production, organize the department, and perform “hands-on” work backstage and outside the hall with the production staff and other BOC Fellows. They will gain exposure to operations management by supporting marketing, sales, and distribution in planning, transportation, customer service, and warehousing, as well as manage inventory and develop logistics for packaging materials. Fellows will work closely with the PAL General Director, BOC Producer, and other Operations VPs of allied institutions (according to yearly calendar), providing a comprehensive learning experience that enhances both practical skills and theoretical knowledge in arts management and operations. Additionally, BOC Fellows will support the development of the Bloomington Opera Camp™, ensuring smooth operations and responding to patron requests (more info here).

Practicum Term:

Bloomington Opera Camp™: May 23th, 2025 - June 7th, 2025 (Camp Schedule - In Person)

Requirements:
